

Innventure, Inc. to Present at April Intellectual Property Conferences in California

03.25.25

ORLANDO, Fla., March 25, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Innventure, Inc. (Nasdaq: INV), a technology commercialization platform, today announced that the company will host two events during the IP Leadership Executive Summit on April 15 and 16 in San Jose, California, and serve as speakers during the LES-SVC's 21st Annual Chapter Conference on April 17 in Mountain View, California.

The IP Leadership Executive Summit is a two-day forum in Silicon Valley bringing together representatives from major tech companies and focuses on the future of intellectual property and technology solutions. Innventure is featured as a platinum partner of the event, underscoring the company's commitment to shaping the future of technology commercialization.

Innventure will hold a workshop during the summit on April 15 at 4:10 P.M. called "Breaking Industry Boundaries: The Reimagined IP Commercialization Playbook." During the session, participants will have the opportunity to participate in an interactive discussion exploring how organizations can unlock value from technology innovations across multiple industries.

The workshop will be moderated by Innventure's Vice-President of Strategic Partnerships, Brice Dubosq.

Panelists for the session will include:

- Matt Cripe, Director, Strategic Partnerships at Innventure
- Gayle Anderson, Vice President, Business Development/Strategic Partnerships at Innventure
- Andrew Meyer, CEO, AeroFlexx

Innventure will also hold a roundtable discussion on April 15 at 11:50 A.M. moderated by Dubosq called, "Maximizing Value: Where the Rubber (TIRE) Meets the Road."

The LES Silicon Valley Chapter Conference celebrates Silicon Valley's unparalleled legacy while addressing the cutting-edge trends, challenges, and opportunities shaping the future of innovation and IP deal-making. This year's theme, "The Silicon Valley Deal Machine," encapsulates the ecosystem that catalyzes innovation through intellectual property (IP), fueling transformative technologies and economic growth.

Innventure is serving as a gold sponsor of the event, with Executive Chairman Mike Otworth speaking at the event for a keynote speech, titled, "Breaking Free: Unleashing Innovation Beyond Corporate Wall," on April 17 at 8:45 a.m.

Innventure's Vice President of Business Development/Strategic Partnerships, Gayle Anderson, will also serve as a panelist on "Scaling Success: Business Models to Scale-up and Scale-out" on April 17 at 11 a.m.

The panel will explore business models supporting innovation and commercialization deal-making, as AI's growing demands are fueling hardware breakthroughs, unlocking new IP value and enabling market transformations in the data center cooling space.
