03.04.26

WEST CHESTER, Ohio, March 04, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- AeroFlexx Packaging, an industry leader in sustainable liquid packaging, has achieved Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) certification for cosmetic packaging at the West Chester manufacturing site. The certification underscores AeroFlexx's commitment to quality, safety, and regulatory excellence in support of global beauty and personal care brands.

GMP Ohio refers to facilities or operations in Ohio that adhere to Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP), a set of guidelines ensuring the consistent production and control of products according to quality standards in industries such as food, pharmaceuticals, and cosmetics. Achieving GMP Ohio certification reinforces AeroFlexx's position as a trusted manufacturing and packaging partner for cosmetic brands navigating an increasingly complex regulatory environment. This milestone further strengthens AeroFlexx's innovative liquid packaging technology, supporting brands seeking compliant, reliable, and scalable packaging for cosmetic formulations, such as shampoos, conditioners, lotions, and serums.

"Achieving GMP Ohio certification is a significant step forward for our beauty and personal care packaging capabilities," said Boris Gavric, AeroFlexx's COO. "This certification reflects our team's commitment and ongoing investment in processes designed to ensure product safety, consistency, and compliance. It allows our customers to move to market with confidence, knowing their products are manufactured and packaged to the highest industry standards."

This certification also reflects AeroFlexx's broader investment in operational excellence, continuous improvement, and customer trust. By aligning with recognized GMP standards, AeroFlexx aims to support faster product launches, reduced compliance risk, and consistent, controlled product quality.
