Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

Certain statements in the Transcript are “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the federal securities laws, including Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Forward-looking statements may include, but are not limited to, statements about the Company’s business model, the financial condition, results of operations, earnings outlook and the prospects for AeroFlexx, LLC (“AeroFlexx” or “AFX”), Accelsius and Refinity Olefins, LLC (“Refinity” and, together with AeroFlexx and Accelsius, the “Innventure Companies” and, together with those subsidiary companies that the Company may found, fund, and operate going forward, the “Operating Companies”). Forward-looking statements are often identified by future or conditional words such as “plan,” “believe,” “expect,” “anticipate,” “intend,” “outlook,” “estimate,” “forecast,” “project,” “continue,” “could,” “may,” “might,” “possible,” “will,” “potential,” “predict,” “should,” “would” and other similar words and expressions (or the negative versions of such words or expressions), but the absence of these words does not mean that a statement is not forward-looking.

The forward-looking statements are based on the current assumptions and expectations of future events that are inherently subject to uncertainties and changes in circumstances and their potential effects and speak only as of the date of the Transcript. There can be no assurance that future developments will be those that have been anticipated. These forward-looking statements involve a number of risks, uncertainties (some of which are beyond the control of the parties) or other assumptions that may cause actual results or performance to be materially different from those expressed or implied by these forward-looking statements. These risks and uncertainties include, but are not limited to, those factors described in the Company’s public filings made with the SEC and the following: (a) the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ ability to execute on strategies and achieve future financial performance, including their respective future business plans, expansion and acquisition plans or objectives, prospective performance and opportunities and competitors, revenues, products and services, pricing, operating expenses, market trends, liquidity, cash flows and uses of cash, capital expenditures; (b) the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ ability to invest in growth initiatives; (c) the implementation, market acceptance and success of the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ business models and growth strategies; (d) the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ future capital requirements and sources and uses of cash; (e) the Company’s ability to maintain control over its subsidiaries, (f) the Company’s access to funds under a Standby Equity Purchase Agreement due to certain conditions, restrictions and limitations set forth therein and in other agreements; (g) certain restrictions and limitations set forth in the Company’s debt instruments, which may impair the Company’s financial and operating flexibility; (h) the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ ability to generate liquidity and maintain sufficient capital to operate as anticipated; (i) the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ ability to obtain funding for their operations and future growth and to continue as going concerns; (j) the risk that the technology solutions that the Company and its subsidiaries license or acquire from third parties or develop internally may not function as anticipated or provide the benefits anticipated; (k) developments and projections relating to the Company’s and its subsidiaries’ competitors and industry; (l) the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries to scale the operations of their respective businesses; (m) the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries to establish substantial commercial sales of their products; (n) the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries to compete against companies with greater capital and other resources or superior technology or products; (o) the Company and its subsidiaries’ ability to meet, and to continue to meet, applicable regulatory requirements for the use of their respective products and the numerous regulatory requirements generally applicable to their businesses; (p) the outcome of any legal proceedings against the Company or its subsidiaries; (q) the Company’s ability to find future opportunities to license or acquire breakthrough technology solutions from multinational corporations or other third parties (“Technology Solutions Provider”) and to satisfy the requirements imposed by or to avoid disagreements with its current and future Technology Solutions Providers; (r) the risk that the launch of new companies distracts the Company’s management from its and its other subsidiaries’ operations; (s) the risk that the Company may be deemed an investment company under the Investment Company Act, which would impose burdensome compliance requirements and restrictions on its activities; (t) the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries to sufficiently protect their intellectual property rights and to avoid or resolve in a timely and cost-effective manner any disputes that may arise relating to its use of the intellectual property of third parties; (u) the risk of a cyber-attack or a failure of the Company's or its subsidiaries' information technology and data security infrastructure; (v) geopolitical risk and changes in applicable laws or regulations; (w) potential adverse effects of other economic, business, and/or competitive factors; (x) operational risks related to the Company and its subsidiaries that have limited or no operating history; and (y) limited liquidity and trading of the Company's securities.

Except to the extent required by applicable law or regulation, the Company undertakes no obligation to update statements to reflect events or circumstances after the date of the Transcript or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events.
